SWISS Dance Company 7273 bring their contemporary dance piece, Romance-S, to Cape Town this week. They will perform at the Little Theatre tomorrow and Wednesday, hosted by GIPCA.

The company consists of Nicolas Cantillon, who studied dance at the Marius Petipa conservatory in Paris, and Laurence Yadi, who trained with the Alvin Ailey Centre in New York.

The duo's works include La vision du lapin (2003) and En concert and Lai lai lai lai (2007, 2008).

In 2006, their work titled Climax won an award from the Liechti Foundation for the Arts. As dancers and choreographic assistants their paths crossed while working for the J. Art Ballet in Paris and at the Company Alias in Geneva, where they collaborated with Gisela Rocha and Rui Horta.
